

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is an outrageous example of the corruption that has become the norm under the current FCC and the current White House.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. But, there is nothing remotely fair or balanced about this decision.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
